National Security Integrators Celebrates 1st Year; Adds AC Technical, Expanding Network Into Canada

National Security Integrators (NSI), a group of privately held security integrators, celebrated its first year as a formal organization during the ISC Show in Las Vegas this year. During their day-long meeting, different vendors including Windy City Wire, Software House and HID made presentations to the group. Each of these manufacturers, in addition to others, have signed strategic alliances with NSI and its members.

In addition, NSI has added AC Technical from Canada to the organization. The addition of AC Technical to the group will provide the group's clients with consistent high-quality and one-stop service throughout North America.

NSI Members
